

Brianna Hickey

Brilley is a serif typeface created by Brianna Hickey. This typeface was designed in 2019 for the typography class taught by Sixten Abbot. It took several months to design over the course of the semester. This family of type is limited to a regular roman and italic. This type also includes unlining numbers, an ampersand as well as a number of ligatures.

The type is blocky and bold but contains various curves which balance the sharp edges of certain letters. The type was originally hand drawn and then scanned into the computer. From there it was edited and completed digitally using illustrator. The name is a combination of the designer's first and last name.
